OCTOBER 4, 2024 | NATIONAL PRESS CLUB | WASHINGTON, D.C.

NUCLEAR ENERGY IS REQUIRED FOR HUMAN ADVANCEMENT IN SPACE EXPLORATION.

The commercial space and supporting industries require clarity and guidance from regulators in order to successfully press forward with the development and use of nuclear energy in space. While certain pathways and policies exist for U.S. government space programs, there is no such parallel for the commercial space sector.

PIVOTAL QUESTIONS REMAIN:

- Who provides safety reviews and how much will they cost?
- Will the government indemnify nuclear spacecraft and payloads?
- Will insurers cover nuclear missions?

"I was a civil litigator for nearly 10 years and came to the ACSP Bootcamp with a strong interest in commercial space law, but no background or experience. It is no exaggeration to say that those four days helped change the course of my entire career. I was able to learn from and make meaningful inroads with leading experts in this industry. In fact, one of the people I connected with was the Chief Legal Officer for True Anomaly, who ended up hiring me a few months after the Bootcamp as in-house counsel. This conference gave me the educational foundation and support to obtain a job I am passionate about, for which I am extremely grateful."
